

The Blushing Beauties Of the Oscars

By Rachel Sloane

Who wore it BETTER?

The pretty in pink women of the 94th Academy Awards

Zoe Kravitz
Wearing Saint Laurent

Nicky Hilton Rothschild
Wearing Jenny Packham's Fall '21 collection

Lily James
Wearing an Atelier Versace dress

The Oscars aired on Sunday, March 27, 2022, at the Dolby Theater in Los Angeles. The Oscars hold to have more classic looks than that other red carpets, and this year we're seeing a lot of bright fresh pastels. Blushing into spring appears to be a popular theme this Oscars as these three celebs are just some of the people wearing this beautiful pastel pink on the carpet, but these are the best of the best. Zoe Kravitz makes her appearance in this category of fashion in pure old Hollywood glamour. Nicky Hilton Rothschild ironically wears this beautiful blush despite the confirmation that she's having a baby boy. Lily James, who plays Pamela Anderson in Hulu's 'Pam and Tommy', takes the cake on this year's best-dressed list at her first-ever Academy Awards in her show-stopping pastel pink gown beaded with floral embellishments and a high leg slit with lace detail. Her gown included some more lace gently placed overtop the tulle skirt and the dress was held up with delicate thin straps. Lily James was as well decorated in a dramatic diamond necklace and sparkly stud earring. This dress by far stole the red carpet!

12 March 31, 2022 OK!